INTRODUCTION

We are pleased to present the 2007 edition of the Office of Women's Health (OWH) Directory of Health Programs Serving Women. This directory is a basic reference tool to help providers, health organizations, and advocacy groups navigate the extensive array of health programs and services offered for women throughout California.

The 2007 Directory contains program descriptions, targeted populations, and contact information. For easy reference, the Directory listings are indexed alphabetically both by program name and subject matter. A website is provided for most programs.

At the time this Directory was compiled in 2006, the OWH was part of the California Department of Health Services (CDHS). In July 2007, CDHS will reorganize into two new departments – the Department of Health Care Services and the California Department of Public Health. In using the guide, readers will notice that each of the programs is listed under the new department name.

The Office of Women's Health publishes the Directory of Health Programs Serving Women as part of its mandate to advance the health status of women and girls in California. The Directory is designed to help women in our state access services that meet their health care needs and those of their families and communities. The guide also provides policymakers and health advocates with a valuable health care resource.

Introduction

The Directory can also be accessed and downloaded from the Internet at www.dhs.ca.gov/director/owh. For more information on women's health, please contact the Office of Women's Health (916) 440-7626 or e-mail us at: OWHmail@dhs.ca.gov.

We wish you good health!

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in blue ink that reads "Sandra Shewry". The script is fluid and cursive, with the first name "Sandra" being more prominent than the last name "Shewry".

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The development of the Office of Women's Health (OWH) Directory of Health Programs Serving Women was a cooperative venture between OWH staff and other program staff within the California Department of Health Services (CDHS). The OWH expresses its sincere appreciation for the enthusiastic effort by all CDHS staff who contributed to this project. Without the support and assistance of each program in compiling the information, production of the Directory would not have been possible.

The OWH also acknowledges the U.S. Health and Human Services' Office of Women's Health for its kind permission to reproduce the official graphic for the cover of this publication.

Special thanks go to Tinah Concepcion of my staff, who coordinated the entire production of the Directory.

I also want to acknowledge the fine work of OWH staffers Jonelle Chaves, Christina Florente, Leslie Holzman, Sarah Justinich, Kiran Lanfranchi-Rizzardi, Renee Wagner, and Zipora Weinbaum, who assisted in contacting program staff throughout the Department, and Wendy Alexander, Principal of Wendy Alexander Writing and Editing Services, who served as project editor.

Sincerely,

Terri Thorfinnson, J.D.
Chief
Office of Women's Health

PROGRAM
DESCRIPTION

The 250 Percent Working Disabled Program is a Medi-Cal program that provides full-scope Medi-Cal benefits through Medi-Cal-enrolled providers to disabled working individuals for a monthly premium based on net countable income. To be eligible, individuals must be disabled and employed, and have net countable income below 250 percent of the federal poverty level. Participants must also pay a monthly premium based on their income and meet other nonfinancial Medi-Cal requirements. Disability income is not counted as net countable income, and approved Internal Revenue Services retirement plans are considered exempt property.

PRIORITY
POPULATION

Individuals who meet the federal definition of disability, but can sustain employment

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION

The Breast and Cervical Cancer Treatment Program (BCCTP) provides urgently needed services through Medi-Cal providers to low-income women who have been screened and found to need treatment for breast and/or cervical cancer. Only screening providers from Cancer Detection Programs: Every Woman Counts (CDP:EWC) or Family Planning, Access, Care, and Treatment (Family PACT) can enroll eligible individuals into BCCTP.

Women screened and found to need treatment by physicians outside these programs must have a doctor from one of the programs confirm that the screen and diagnosis meet Centers for Disease Control (CDC) requirements and that the woman also meets screening program criteria before she can enroll.

BCCTP has both a federal and a state program. The federal BCCTP provides for full-scope, no-share-of-cost Medi-Cal that continues until the patient no longer needs treatment or no longer meets all federal eligibility requirements. To be eligible, a woman must: (1) have U.S. (or naturalized) citizenship or satisfactory immigration status; (2) be under age 65; and (3) have no creditable health insurance.

The state-funded BCCTP provides no-cost services limited to breast and/or cervical cancer treatment and related services for applicants who do not meet federal requirements. Women with creditable health coverage whose premiums, co-payments and/or deductibles are less than $750 in a 12-month period are ineligible for the state BCCTP. Breast cancer treatment services are available for up to 18 months; cervical cancer treatment for up to 24 months.

Women who meet all federal eligibility criteria except satisfactory immigration status are eligible for state-funded cancer treatment and related services, federal emergency and pregnancy-related services, and state-only, long-term care services.

PROGRAM
DESCRIPTION

The California Birth Defects Monitoring Program maintains a birth defects registry and conducts research to evaluate whether environmental and genetic factors are linked to birth defects. Large-scale studies are done in which mothers are interviewed about a wide range of environmental factors they may be exposed to before and during pregnancy, including nutrition, chemicals in the home or workplace, medications, illness, weight, and lifestyle issues. The program also collects biological samples from parents in order to look for interactions between environmental exposures and genetic factors that may be associated with birth defects.

WEBSITE <http://www.ccrca.org>

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION

The California Cancer Registry (CCR) is the state's population-based cancer surveillance system. CCR collects information about virtually all cancers in California. This information promotes our understanding of cancer and facilitates strategy and policy development for cancer prevention, treatment and control. Many cancers can be cured if detected early and treated promptly. Some can be prevented with behavioral or lifestyle changes. The availability of data on cancer in California allows health researchers to analyze geographic, ethnic, occupational, and other differences that provide clues which point to risk factors. The data also helps determine where early detection, education or other programs should be directed.

DESCRIPTION

The Child Health and Disability Prevention (CHDP) Program Gateway allows infants and children who are receiving a health assessment from a CHDP provider to electronically pre-enroll into temporary, time-limited Medi-Cal while still at the provider's site. This short-term Medi-Cal lasts for up to two months; covers all medically necessary care; and gives the family time to apply for regular, ongoing Medi-Cal while their infants and children have temporary health coverage. The CHDP Gateway process also identifies infants who are entitled to be considered eligible for Medi-Cal until age 1 without the need for an application if they are born to mothers who received Medi-Cal in the month of birth.

PROGRAM
DESCRIPTION

The Chlamydia Screening Program (CLASP) serves females in juvenile detention facilities in 19 counties and 22 facilities throughout California. This population was chosen for screening due to the high rates of disease in the 15- to 19- year-old age group in the state (which is similar to high rates nationwide) and also because the risk behaviors of these individuals increases the likelihood of acquiring disease. In addition, these female detainees often have no other source of health care. CLASP requires collaboration between local health departments, juvenile justice facilities and public health laboratories.

PROGRAM
DESCRIPTION

The Office of Multicultural Health (OMH) seeks to increase the capacity of the Department of Health Care Services (DHCS) and the California Department of Public Health (CDPH), health care providers, and ethnic/racial communities to reduce gaps in health status and improve quality of life for the state's diverse populations. OMH advocates and promotes: (1) culturally appropriate health services; (2) increased communication among DHCS and CDPH, health services providers, and ethnic/racial communities; (3) community participation in the design, implementation, and evaluation of health programs; and (4) greater competency for those serving culturally diverse groups through training, technical assistance, and strategic planning. OMH supports the development and dissemination of culturally appropriate information, strategies, and resources.

PROGRAM
DESCRIPTION

The Office of Women's Health (OWH) strives to guide women's health policy to promote health and reduce preventable disease and injury among women and girls in California. Working with both the Department of Health Care Services (DHCS) and the California Department of Public Health (CDPH), OWH advances cost-effective, innovative solutions to women's health problems. OWH serves as the focal point for: (1) recommending and monitoring women's public health policy; (2) promoting more comprehensive, effective approaches to improve women's health; and (3) enhancing the visibility and prominence of women's health concerns. OWH also helps facilitate the California Women's Health Survey, analyzes and distributes key findings in Data Points and other publications, and staffs the Women's Health Advisory Council.

PROGRAM
DESCRIPTION

The Oral Health Program (OHP) promotes effective oral health practices among parents; childcare and primary health care providers; and Maternal, Child and Adolescent Health (MCAH) programs by expanding access to dental care through sources such as Medi-Cal and Healthy Families. OHP assists local MCAH staff in identifying populations at high risk for oral health disease. The program also works to increase the number of children who receive preventive dental services such as fluoride (toothpaste, fluoride varnish, mouth rinse, and other forms of fluoride), dental sealants, and xylitol chewing gum.

PROGRAM
DESCRIPTION

The STD Community Interventions Program (SCIP) provides funds to local health departments for more effective primary prevention of sexually transmitted diseases (STDs). SCIP focuses on youth and young adults, who account for over two-thirds of reported STD cases in California. Rates of chlamydia, a bacterial STD that can lead to pelvic inflammatory disease and infertility, are highest among females ages 15 to 24. Using cross-training and interagency partnerships, SCIP increases staff skills and collaborative efforts of community, government and school youth programs to integrate STD prevention into youth development, alcohol and drug use, and teen pregnancy and violence prevention programs.

PROGRAM
DESCRIPTION The WISEWOMAN (Well-Integrated Screening and Evaluation for Women Across the Nation) Program is a nationwide demonstration project funded by the federal Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC). Coronary heart disease is the leading cause of death for American women; stroke is the third. In California, the CDC-funded WISEWOMAN Program is called "Heart of the Family," or "Corazon de la Familia." The primary goal is to decrease the risk of morbidity and mortality from cardiovascular disease (CVD) in select groups of Latina women through timely, high-quality screening and education to lower elevated cholesterol and high blood pressure. Heart of the Family is designed to demonstrate the effectiveness of
